NATIONAL NEWS.

Interesting Items from our Special Correspondent in Washington.

The "Glorious Fourth" has been a blessed day in Washington, there and everywhere, and since the canon boomed and the church bells chimed national airs at daybreak, there has been reasonable quiet in this city. The small boy with the toy pistol and the nuisance adult with the cannon freeracker have alike hid away for the day and there is peace.

Holidays are perhaps less noisy in Washington than elsewhere because they are more common here, especially so far as the poor government wage-earner is concerned. What with the regular holidays, the Christmas week half-holiday, his thirty days annual leave, and his sixty days sick leave (of which he generally takes some advantage) the government clerk could afford to ignore the liberty of the Fourth. But he does not. The passion for holidays becomes a fierce flame. Everytime he reads of the critical condition of any ex-secretary of the particular Department in which he is employed, he becomes solicitous. If the ex-official dies, he is in Washington or Persia, the Department will be closed for the day. So the government clerk is charitably inclined to believe that so long as a man is mortal, and this particular man is very old, and his work is done, he might do far worse than die, especially as it is now midsummer and the office is particularly close and hot.

The first of July did not, to any extent, bring about the revolution in the Departments that had been fondly predicted by the waiting office seekers. The discharges were not unusually large for the end of any fiscal year, and were not even so numerous as those occurring in the summer after Mr. Cleveland's inauguration. The few Republican Congressmen whom I have talked with on the subject, bitterly denounce the tardiness of the administration in this regard.

Your uncle Jerry Rusk is a picturesque figure, a sort of sportive rustic who plays his part as Secretary of Agriculture with considerable comic-opera spirit, when he left the State of Wisconsin to take care of itself, and came to Washington as head of the seed distributing office, his friends bewailed his action as being a voluntary rushing into obscurity. Some did not hesitate to say that it was a Hoosier trick to take Uncle Jerry out of the fierce light of active politics and prevent him from assuming a Presidential importance in 1892.

But Uncle J.—is a man of original daring. Within a month after arriving here he had installed himself into the good graces of all the newspaper men in Washington. It is just as easy to get a paragraph of him as it is to get one of a county justice of the peace. The Agricultural Department is now a great news center. Ancient jokes elbow personal anecdotes, and every correspondent may take his pick. One day Secretary Rusk sets every one laughing by swinging a scythe on the Department lawn and thereby giving a lesson to the gang of slow workmen employed. In any one else this would have been a freak, in this case it was an advertisement, as well prepared as the best of Mr. Wanmaker's Philadelphia announcements. Mr. Rusk followed this bit by mounting the wheel horse and driving a double team from the station to General Felix Angus' county place in Maryland. The hay wagon thus conducted, contained a score of newspaper correspondents who promptly spread the story over the country, to the good natured gratification of the majority of readers.

But all this time Uncle Jerry is on the outlook for something sensational in politics. Life has its stern duties, its serious obligations, as well as its frolicsome relaxations. Everyone with a recollection of the details of the last campaign remember Mary Ann Dougherty. This widow had a special pension bill passed for her benefit by Congress, and President Cleveland vetoed it on the grounds that Mary Ann was a disreputable character and not worthy of being classed among the humble widows of veterans. Though the widow Dougherty thus lost her pension, she gained great fame, and her name was in the mouths of half the campaign speakers. Fame, alas, was too much for her girlish nature and her exuberance of feeling was several times checked by small fines in the police court, where she was charged with inhaling strong liquors. This week Secretary Rusk discovered her in poverty and wretchedness, and immediately appointed her as a seed packer at $1.50 a day. The picture of the gracious secretary handing $1.50 a day to the red nosed widow with the violent breath touches one to tears.

Apropos of the great Paris sale of paintings this week, the officials of the Corcoran art gallery gravely announce that they sent a secret commission to France with instructions to bid "The Angulus up to $100,000."

Tea Good Things to Know.

1. That salt will curdle new milk, hence in preparing milk porridge, gravies, etc., the salt should not be added until the dish is prepared.
2. That clear boiling water will remove tea stains and many fruit stains. Pour the water through the stain and thus prevent its spreading over the fabric.
3. That ripe tomatoes will remove ink and other stains from white cloth, also from the hands.
4. That a tablespoonful of turpentine boiled with white clothes will aid the whitening process.
5. That boiled starch is much improved by the addition of a little sperm salt or gum arabic dissolved.
6. That beeswax and salt will make rusty flat irons as clean and smooth as glass. Tie a lump of wax in a rag and keep it for that purpose. When the irons are hot, rub them first with the wax rag, then scour with a paper or cloth sprinkled with salt.
7. That blue ointment and kerosene mixed in equal proportions and applied to the bedsteads is an unerring bedbug remedy, as a coat of whitewash is for the wall of a log house.
8. That kerosene will soften boots or shoes that have been hardened by water, and render them pliable as new.
9. That kerosene will make tin tea kettles as bright as new. Saturate a woolen rag and rub with it. It will also remove stains from varnished furniture.
10. That cool rain water and soda will remove machine grease from washable fabrics.—The Sanitarian.

TO THE GRAND CANYON.

Capitalists who are Opening up a Terra Incognita.

The San Francisco Examiner of the 7th has the following: Charles L. Rickerson, a wealthy member of the New York Chamber of Commerce and Produce Exchange, is in the city. Mr. Rickerson is interested with John C. De La Verne and Ellis Wainwright, president of the Wainwright Brewing Company, St. Louis, in the great A-1 ranch of over 200,000 acres in the San Francisco mountains, near the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

"We are now making two preliminary surveys for a railroad to that romantic region," said Mr. Rickerson to a Reporter yesterday. "I have just arrived from there, and as near as I could find out not 200 people have ever seen the canyon in all its parts. I have been all over Europe and pretty much over this country, and have never seen anything that begins to approach it. No, I am not interested in the salt mines, but the good land down there and the Grand Canyon are enough to attract thousands of people. Besides these, lignite coal has been found on the Great Painted Desert, that is equal to the fine coal found at Gallup, on the Atlantic & Pacific road.

"Our surveying force, consisting of fourteen men, are now running a line from Flagstaff, a distance of about eighty miles to the canyon. When they get through with this, will run a line from the end of the Utah Southern at Frisco, Utah, down to the canyon. That distance is about 110 miles. Both lines are perfectly feasible, and inside of a year or two I think there will be one railroad at least to the Grand Canyon.

"Prof. Rossiter W. Raymond, the geological editor of the New York Engineering and Mining Journal, who is now in California, leaves in a few days, so I am told, for the canyon. He takes assistants with him, and will make several explorations in the interests of geology."

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs Winslow's SMOOTHING SURF, for children teething is the best prescription of one of the best female nurses and physicians in the United States and has been used forty years with never-failing success by millions of mothers for their children. During the process of teething its value is incalculable. It relieves the child from pain, curdles the bowels, and drives out the bile, and will make several explorations in the interests of geology."

Girls' Birthdays.

An old astrological prediction gives the character of a girl according to the month she is born in, as follows:

If a girl is born in January, she will be a prudent housewife; given to melancholy, but good-tempered and fond of fine clothes.

If in February, an affectionate wife and tender mother, and devoted to dress.

If in March, a frivolous chatterbox, somewhat given to quarreling and a connoisseur in gowns and bonnets.

If in April, inconstant, not very intelligent, but likely to be good-looking and studious of fashion plates.

If in May, handsome, amiable, and given to style in dress.

If in June, impetuous, will marry early, be frivolous, and like drossy clothes.

If in July, possibly handsome, but with a sulky temper and a penchant for gay attire.

If in August, amiable and practical, likely to marry rich and to dress strikingly.

If in September, discreet, affable, much liked, a fashionable dresser.

If in October, pretty and coquetish, and devoted to attractive furniture.

If in November, liberal, kind, of a mild disposition, and an admirer of stylish dress.

If in December, well proportioned, fond of novelty, extravagant and a student of dressy effects.

Justice in the South.

A newly elected Justice of the Peace, who holds forth not a thousand miles from Monmouth, Ill., says the Monmouth Review, delivered the following charge to a jury the other day:

"Gentleman of the jury, charging a jury is a new business to me, as this is my first case. You, as well as myself, have heard all the evidence in the case. You have also heard what the learned counsels have said. If you believe what the counsel for the plaintiff has told you, your verdict will be for the plaintiff; but if, on the other hand, you believe what the defendant's counsel has told you, then you will give a verdict for the defendant. But if you are like me and don't believe what either of them said, then I'll be hanged if I know what you will do. Constable, take charge of the jury."

Arizona's First Creamery.

Advertising is not the road to success, but it is success itself.—Richardson.

The Phoenix creamery has passed beyond the experimental stage, and Mr. J. P. Moffit has concluded to enlarge. He has at present two centrifugal separators, and manipulates 180 gallons of milk. He uses the Laval separator, a simple scientific machine, that effectually separates the cream from the milk, while fresh, by a rotary motion, the machine making 7,500 revolutions per minute. By centrifugal force the heavy milk flies outward and cream, being lighter, remains on the inside of this whirl and rises to the top, flowing out in a yellow stream a trifle higher than the bluish-white stream of skim milk. The tender of milk by ranchers is greater than Mr. Moffit can accept, and he has ordered a belt-power separator which will be run by a small engine. The cream and butter are kept in Mr. Lount's ice-house in a clean, cool place. It is the intention to have a cold storage house sometime in the future.

The facilities of the Salt River valley for dairy purposes can hardly be excelled. Hay and fresh water are abundant, and the temperature can be regulated easily by cold storage. Mr. Moffit should be encouraged until his capacities are such that he can accept all of the milk offered. It is a promising industry for this community. The machine can be seen in operation at Lount's icehouse on any evening at sundown.—Phoenix Tribune.

How the Grand Golden Drawing Occurred.

Everyone wants to hear the result of the Grand Extraordinary Golden (229th Monthly) Drawing, which took place at New Orleans, La., of the Louisiana State Lottery on Tuesday, June 18th, 1889. A Blessed Jack Pot.

"Vice is always to the front in matters of charity," said Senator John P. Jones, in a little story related at the Palmer House, Chicago, last June. "A number of senators were playing a little game of draw in Washington when a church relief committee filed into the room and we all agreed to play for a jack pot and donate it. The gentleman who won gave the money and signed the list 'J. Pot $100.' The following Sunday the good minister blessed all who had contributed to the church fund, and adding: 'Ard, O, Lord, bless J Pot wherever his lines may be cast.'"

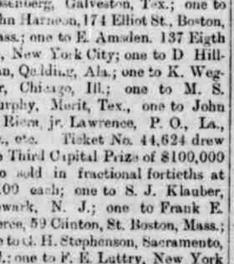

The Hostetter Stomach Bitter People Score Another Point.

In the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York, Judge Shipman handed down an opinion a few days ago in the suit of the owners of the trade marks covering Hostetter's Stomach Bitters against Arnold Tholler and Cornell Theller, the compounders located on Vesey street, New York City, in which it was decided that although the defendants made use of their own names on the labels affixed to the bottles containing bitters prepared by them, yet as they were evidently designed to imitate the Hostetter labels, they were infringers, and a perpetual injunction was granted and an accounting of damages ordered, together with the cost of the suit. It is the evident intention of the Hostetter people to protect their valuable trade mark against all infringers.
